UCLA Bruins

After spending much of 2008 with the U.S. Olympic Team, UCLA head coach Jillian Ellis is doing things a little differently in 2009. Still coaching the U.S. Under-20s, Ellis sat down with Christelle Nahas to discuss the season ahead, juggling international and college coaching, and what it's like to watch her former players go pro.

Q: Looking back at 2008, how is this year different for you as a coach?

A: Last year with the Olympics, I was never here. Literally, I showed up the day before our first game. It was more of an unknown to me. This year I spent the spring with my team and I got to evaluate spring practice. Also, I just got back from the USYSA National Championships and saw three of our incoming freshmen play. So I feel differently going into this preseason, one, because I'm here for it and two, because I have a good idea of what we have.

Q: Do you think that any new players will have an impact right away?

A: Yeah, I think so. There are players in this incoming class who will immediately be able to contribute for us.

I tell players every year that we try to out-recruit what we have, that's part of our jobs. Every year I feel like we're getting deeper, but I feel like this year we have players who will come off the bench and give us a great lift. More players will be competing for starting positions, I think. We're definitely deeper.

Q: With Ashley Thompson gone, how is the new goalkeeper situation shaping up?

A: It's good. We will have three keepers. Chante Sandiford joined us last year but was unable to play. She had a fantastic summer playing in the W-League and won some accolades with the Washington Freedom. She was also in with the Under-20 national team, so I just think her confidence is high, and I'm excited to see her play. I think both Yiana Dimmitt and Chante will be the two that will be pushing each other for the starting spot. Alana Munger is our freshman. She's going to take some time to transition into the college environment, but she knew that going through the recruiting process.

Q: Your first game is against North Carolina in Chapel Hill. What was your thinking in having the first game be against such a tough opponent?

A: Well, we only had 19 games scheduled. Carolina had someone drop out and they knew we were looking for an extra game. It just presented itself and I think that, like them, we just saw it as a great opening game to sort of test the waters to see where we are. For both teams it's useful. Carolina is so unique with the pressuring style that they play. It will allow our players to experience it before they see it in a playoff situation. Carolina is probably the No.1 team (defending national champions), so if we do well, we'll hopefully see them later in the season.

Q: What players stood out for you in preseason that haven't gotten as much attention in the past?

A: I truly think that Kylie Wright is going to be one of the best, top three midfielders in the country. I think people have just started to discover just how special she is. She's got everything; she's athletic, she's technical, she's competitive. She has started ever since she was a freshman. She's now moving into her junior year, and she's been playing consistently with the Under-23 national team. Teams will have to focus on her, she's so good. I think Kylie will be a household name by the end of the season.

I've also spent a lot of time with Zakiya Bywaters. She's been with the U-20s so she's been with me for most of the year. And she's terrific; pacey, technical, likes to run at people, good final passes. We lost (Tina) DiMartino, but Zakiya is a similar type of player. She's actually going to wear the No. 5 jersey. She's a kid that I'm really excited to see start the season.

Ahsha Smith and Sophie Metz are kids from Northern California and are off the same club team. I just saw their team in nationals. Both are very technical, athletic players. I'm really excited to see our freshmen class as a whole.

Kristina Larsen had a great season coming off the bench for us last year, and she had a great spring. So she's pushing to be a starter, and I think she can be. I think she will be a player that opponents have to focus on because she's just so strong and good around the goal.

Q: This year you elevated B.J. Snow to Assistant Head Coach. What does he bring to the program?

A: He's a rock star. B.J. came through as a volunteer, then assistant, and now he's such an integral part of the program. I really feel that I share the load with B.J. in coaching. He is primarily responsible for the fieldwork with our defenders, and he's a big part of our recruiting. He's bright, he's got a good eye for the game, players have a good rapport with him, and I enjoy being around him. So yeah, he's outstanding.

I'd say all of my staff are extremely capable of running a practice and ultimately that's what you want as a coach. Louise (Lieberman), B.J. and Lauren McAdam – we had a lot of fun in the spring. I think our chemistry in the coaches' office is great and I think the players sense that.

Being an assistant last year with the Olympic team, it made me more in tune with what an assistant needs to do and what their expectations are, so I really try and give those guys as much as possible. You want to feel like you have input and that you're able to contribute. Some assistants just put out cones and take roll and their position is minimized. For me, I want to try and develop people that leave here and are ready to be head coaches, so they get to see a lot and do a lot with the program.

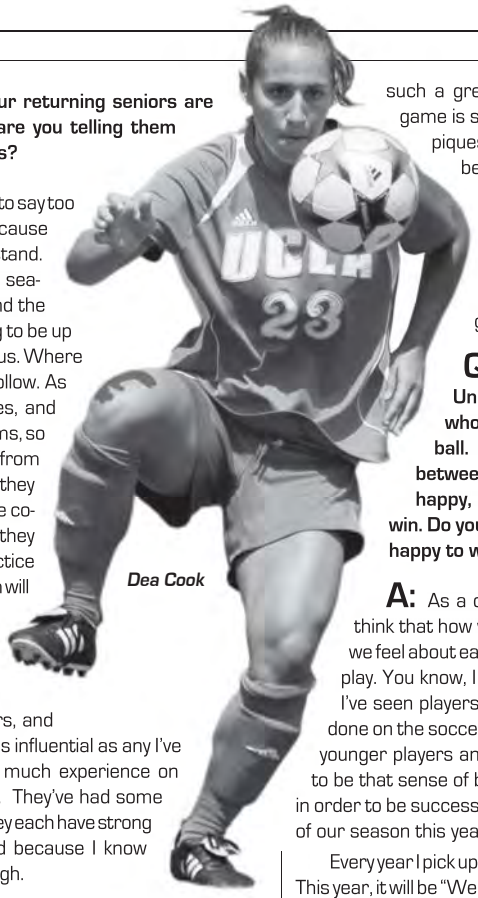
Q: What can you tell us about this season's schedule and your philosophy and preparing for the playoffs?

A: I always know our conference games will be tough. We know we've got a strong conference. And we have gotten as many top teams on our non-conference schedule as possible. We're going to play North Carolina, then we're going to Illinois where we'll play Illinois and Florida. We also try and play different conferences, and we have Missouri, LMU and Utah coming in for our own tournament.

We play one of the most demanding schedules in the country. For me it's about looking at the season, and I always look at the conference part as being the major preparation. It's important not to get too caught up in wins and losses. We've gotten to the finals having lost five games in the regular season, and we've gotten to the finals having been undefeated, so it's just about taking the experiences of the season. But I feel like we're a program that takes it to a whole other level when we hit the playoffs. I think we do a really good job of that as a team—mentally preparing for the playoffs.

Q: This year all of your returning seniors are impact players. What are you telling them about your expectations?

A: You don't really have to say too much to your seniors because they get it. They understand. They've ridden out three seasons and they understand the demands. It's really going to be up to them where they take us. Where they lead, the team will follow. As much as we are coaches, and we can influence our teams, so much of it has to come from the players themselves. If they want to have this team be cohesive and competitive, they can influence that in practice and that's where the team will follow them.



Dea Cook

I really think that we've got an outstanding senior group. All five of those kids are starters, and I think this class can be as influential as any I've ever had. They have so much experience on the field and off the field. They've had some great experiences and they each have strong personalities. I'm excited because I know their expectations are high.

Q: What is the recruiting process like and do you think it has changed in recent years?

A: It has changed. It's so escalated now that we're looking at sophomores in high school because a lot of those kids are ready to make decisions. I have never deadlined a kid, but now it's almost the norm that kids are ready to make their decision earlier, so you almost get pressure from the players. So it's changed for sure, but the philosophy of what we have to do hasn't changed. We're still trying to bring in players who want to be a part of this university and succeed here academically. At the same time, we're trying to get players who want to play the game in an attractive manner and compete for a national championship year in and year out. So those things are still the same. But it's become a process that you can almost never step away from. With phones and Blackberries and the internet, you're accessible all times day or night. So I think on a personal level, sometimes it's hard to have any downtime. Especially when I also work with the U-20s as well. But it's also a fun thing to try and get to know a player, and try to bring in players who you think fit into the program.

Q: With your commitments to U.S. Soccer and UCLA, you are definitely one of the busiest coaches in the country. How do you battle burnout?

A: I think I'm wired in a way that if I were to sit still too long, I would not be happy...or productive for that matter. I like to have a lot of things in front of me and I like to stay very active. But there are times certainly when you just don't want to get on another airplane, or sit in another airport for seven hours. I think having the right people around you helps. As a staff, sometimes we just kind of just hang out and before you know it, time's gone just like that. I'm around friends, not just colleagues. And that, I think, helps.

Certainly, what I need to get better at is trying to make time for myself. Trying to say no to things is something I think I have to learn to be better at. But I enjoy staying busy. I love coaching, I love the national team because it's such a great environment. The international game is so different from college. That really piques my interest as a coach. The part of being a college coach that's enjoyable is developing relationships with your players, seeing them grow, mature, leave here and take another step in their lives. I find college coaching very rewarding, but the international game is fun as well.

Q: There was a coach at the University of Arizona, Mike Candrea, who coached both baseball and softball. He once said of the difference between the two: men need to win to be happy, and women need to be happy to win. Do you find that your players need to be happy to win?

A: As a coach of a female team, I certainly think that how we interact, how we get along, how we feel about each other does translate into how we play. You know, I think that at the professional level, I've seen players who don't get along but can get it done on the soccer field. Still, when you're dealing with younger players and college players, I think there has to be that sense of belonging and a sense of friendship in order to be successful. That's going to be a big, big part of our season this year.

Every year I pick up a theme or a mantra for the season. This year, it will be "We're not stars, we're a constellation." I put a lot of investment and a lot of emphasis on the chemistry and the unity - the camaraderie part of it. I also know that if you are winning, a lot of things get overlooked. Winning helps keep some issues in the background. But I would say that generally, for a female team to be successful, they have to get along and feel good about each other. That's definitely important.

Q: Many of your players played in the W-League in the off season. What does that do for their level, and have you been out to catch any of their games?

A: I've watched a lot of the Pali Blues games, yeah. A lot of my kids who have been involved with national team program have to do summer school in order to keep up and stay on track. Having a local team is great for us because a player like Lauren Cheney is able to go to school and still play in a competitive environment. Chante also reaped the benefits of playing in the W-League, playing out east for the Washington Freedom. And I mean, even our incoming freshman Chelsea Cline was playing in the W-League [for the Minnesota Lightning], so it's a good league, and right now it's the best place for these kids to play in the summer.

Q: Several Bruins have been drafted into Women's Professional Soccer teams; Tina DiMartino, Jill Oakes, Danesha Adams, McCall Zerboni and Val Henderson. How do you feel about your players now being able to go pro and get paid to play soccer?

A: I'm extremely proud of those players. I've completely become a fan of the WPS. I mean, it's been great to go down to the Home Depot Center and watch them play. I love watching soccer and obviously women's soccer, and now I get to watch with a little bit more of a personal investment in the game. It's just great. I feel almost like a mom sitting there and being so happy for my kids by cheering them on. Sometimes after games they'll call and go, "Did you see my game?" I tape every single game. I think the pro league is just a wonderful thing. It's what our country needs and I'm happy that so many of our players are playing and doing well.

Q: How does the new league play into your job here at UCLA?

A: Now in preparing our players, the ones who want to go pro at least, it's become part of our getting them ready for that next step and getting them on task to graduate in a good time frame. If our seniors can finish up by winter quarter, they won't have to come back to school in the spring. So it's part of our planning now, which is a wonderful problem to have.

Jillian Ellis enters her 11th season at the helm of the UCLA women's soccer program. She was hired on July 8, 1999 as the third head coach in program history following previous coaches Joy Fawcett (1993-97) and Todd Saldana (1998).

During her nine seasons in Westwood, Ellis has transformed the Bruins into one of the premier programs in the nation, as UCLA is one of only a handful of teams that is annually in the hunt for the national title, She has led UCLA to seven appearances in the NCAA College Cup, including six in a row from 2003-08. Her College Cup appearances have been highlighted with three trips to the championship match (2000, 2004 and 2005). Ellis owns a record of 195-34-11 (.835) at UCLA, while her overall coaching record, which includes two seasons at the University of Illinois, stands at 214-52-11 (.792).

Ellis' impact on the UCLA program was felt almost immediately, as she led the Bruins to the school's first-ever NCAA College Cup in just her second season as head coach in 2000. UCLA entered the NCAA Tournament as a No. 6 seed that season, marching all the way to the NCAA Final against perennial power North Carolina. Although the Bruins would lose a hard-fought battle 2-1, UCLA made it clear to the rest of the country that it had arrived as one of college soccer's elite programs. Ellis was awarded the NSCAA/adidas National Coach of the Year Award for her efforts with the 2000 team.

Ellis' first Pac-10 Championship came the following season in 2001, as the Bruins finished the conference season with a 8-1 record. That season also marked the first time in program history that UCLA reached the 20-win mark, as the Bruins finished the year with a 20-3 overall record.

After narrowly missing the NCAA College Cup in 2001 and 2002, Ellis led UCLA back to the Final Four in 2003. It would begin an incredible run of five straight appearances in college soccer's biggest event.

Ellis has guided the Bruins to two more NCAA Finals appearances since the first in 2000, as UCLA fell to Notre Dame in the first-ever championship match decided by penalty kicks in 2004, and to Portland in 2005. The 2005 team would set the school record for wins in a season, ending the year 22-2-2 overall.

UCLA has enjoyed tremendous success the last two years, making the program's fifth and six straight appearances in the NCAA College Cup, along with posting a perfect 18-0 record in Pac-10 play. After posting another undefeated conference season in 2008, UCLA became the only school in Pac-10 history to win six straight league titles. Ellis was rewarded for her coaching at the end of the 2007 campaign, as she was named Pac-10 Coach of the Year for the second time in her career.

Jillian Ellis served as an assistant coach for the U.S. Women's National Team in Beijing. She is joined by players Lindsay Tarpley (left) and Lauren Cheney.

A master recruiter, Ellis continues to attract some of the top players in the country to Westwood year in and year out. Ellis' recruiting classes have twice been named No. 1 overall by Soccer Buzz Magazine (2000 and 2007), while eight of her 10 classes have been ranked in the top 10 nationally. Seven of those classes have been ranked in the top five.

In addition to her efforts in the college game, Ellis has also excelled at the international level, most recently serving as assistant coach for the gold-medal-winning U.S. Olympic Team at the 2008 Beijing Games. She has also enjoyed several successful coaching stints with both the U-20 and U-21 U.S. Youth National Teams, leading the U-21s to Nordic Cup titles in 2000 and 2005. She also coached her current team, the U-20s, to a second-place showing at the Pan American Games in Brazil in the summer of 2007. Ellis' other projects with U.S. Soccer include serving as a consultant with 2000 U.S. Olympic Team in Sydney, Australia, working extensively with the Under-16 U.S. National Team.

Ellis came to Westwood after heading the University of Illinois women's soccer program for two years. In 1998, she brought the Fighting Illini to a 12-8 record and a first-ever Big-Ten Tournament berth. In the program's first year in 1997, the Illini ranked among the leaders in the Big Ten in attendance.

Prior to heading up the University of Illinois program, Ellis served as an assistant coach at the University of Virginia for one year (1996-97), at Maryland for three years (1994-96) and at North Carolina State for another three years (1988-90). As an assistant coach at North Carolina State, Ellis helped the Wolfpack secure the 1988 Atlantic Coast Conference title and an NCAA Final Four appearance. In 1993, at the University of Maryland, she helped lead the Terrapins to the 1995 NCAA quarterfinals.

A forward at the College of William & Mary from 1984-87, Ellis was a third-team All-American in 1987 and an honorable mention all-region selection in 1985. She was also a member of the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America Senior Recognition Team in 1987. In 1984, Ellis led the Braddock Road Club in Virginia to the Under-19 national championship.

Ellis is the daughter of legendary soccer coach John Ellis, who is a former assistant coach with the U.S. Women's National Team and has directed the Soccer Academy in Manassas, Virginia since 1984. John was a longtime soccer ambassador for the British government, helping to create soccer programs worldwide. He also served as head coach for the Trinidad and Tobago national team. Ellis' brother, Paul Ellis, is also a soccer coach. In 1998, he was head coach for the Region I U-17 team. A former assistant coach at George Mason University, he currently works full-time with his father at the Soccer Academy.

Jillian Ellis grew up in Portsmouth, England and came to the United States in 1981 at the age of 15. She also lived in Singapore for two years while her father helped to develop a national soccer program in that country. She earned her bachelor of arts degree in English Literature and Composition from the College of William & Mary in 1988 and currently resides in Los Angeles.

B.J. Snow enters his fourth season on the UCLA coaching staff, and first season as assistant head coach after being elevated to the position this past February. Prior to being named assistant head coach, Snow served as an assistant from 2007-08. He joined the program as a volunteer assistant coach in 2006.

"B.J. has been a valuable part of our program's success," says Ellis. "His commitment and passion for UCLA is evident every day he works with our players."

Snow arrived at UCLA after spending four years as the head men's coach at his former high school, Portage Central in Kalamazoo, Mich. During his tenure at PCHS, he led the Mustangs to three Southern Michigan Athletic Conference (SMAC) titles, including three district championships. In addition, Portage Central set the school record for wins in both 2004 (19) and 2005 (20). He also coached NSCAA/adidas National High School Player of the Year Eric Alexander, who now plays at Indiana. Snow was an assistant with the girl's team at the school.

A four-year starter on defense at Indiana from 1996-99, Snow helped the Hoosiers capture four-straight Big Ten titles, including back-to-back national championships in 1998 and 1999. Indiana's record during his time in Bloomington was 81-8-3.

In addition to his efforts in the college game, Snow is also an assistant with the Under-20 U.S. Women's National Team, which is preparing for the 2010 World Cup in Germany next July.

Snow is married to U.S. Women's National team member Lindsay Tarpley.

Former Bruin player Louise Lieberman enters her first season on the UCLA coaching staff. She was named assistant coach in February, replacing Shannon MacMillan, who accepted the job of Director of Coaching for the DMCV Sharks, a competitive girls club in San Diego.

"I'm thrilled to have Louise back in the Bruin family," says Ellis. "As a player, she helped build the winning tradition at this school, and I'm sure she will be equally as successful as she embarks on the coaching phase of her UCLA career. Her experience at both the club and ODP levels will be a huge asset to the program."

Lieberman returns to UCLA after serving the last three years as Director of Coaching for the highly-competitive LA Rampage Futbol Club. Her primary position with the club included overseeing all 27 youth teams, while managing a staff of roughly 15 coaches. As director, she was also heavily involved in all parent/player relations with the club. Lieberman was hired by the Rampage to be the Director of Women's Coaching in 2005 and was elevated to the main director position after just one year. Prior to her time with the Rampage, she served as former Bruin Paul Caligiuri's assistant for both the men's and women's teams at Cal Poly Pomona in 2002. Lieberman has also been extensively involved with the Cal-South ODP team, coaching at both the U-14 and U-16 levels.

As a player, Lieberman was a second-team All-Pac-10 selection at UCLA in 1995. She played in 78 games during her four-year career, helping the program claim its first two Pac-10 Championships in 1997 and '98. Lieberman's career totals include 31 points on seven goals and 17 assists, and she still ranks in the top 10 all time (10th) at the school in career assists. UCLA made the NCAA Tournament in three of her four seasons, reaching the quarterfinals in 1997. Following her UCLA playing days, she played one year for the WUSA's Washington Freedom during the league's inaugural season of 2001.

Lieberman was a standout at Beverly Hills High School from 1991-95, earning multiple MVP, all-league and All-CIF honors. She was named one of Soccer America's Elite 11 Recruits as a senior in 1995. She also led her club team, the Fountain Valley Spirit, to a national championship in 1994.

Lieberman served one year as an undergraduate assistant coach at UCLA in 1999 while finishing up her degree in sociology.

Lauren McAdam begins her second season as a volunteer assistant coach with the UCLA program. She works primarily with the Bruin goalkeepers.

McAdam did an outstanding job with UCLA's goalkeepers in 2008, helping Ashley Thompson lead the nation in goals against average. Thompson also set new single-season school records for wins (22), shutouts (13) and goals against average (0.25).

McAdam, a former goalkeeper herself, was one of the most accomplished players in Miami history, ranking No. 1 at the school in career saves (307), shutouts (15) and minutes played (5,796). She ranks second in career wins with 22. McAdam also set a pair of single-season records as a junior in 2006, breaking the marks for shutouts (6) and goals against average (1.29). She was named an All-ACC Academic selection in 2006 and 2007. She earned NSCAA/adidas National Player of the Week honors in 2007 after setting the school record for shutouts with a pair of wins over Boston College and Maryland.

McAdam, a native of Simsbury, Conn. completed her degree in psychology from Miami in the spring of 2008.

MARSHALL FIELD AT DRAKE STADIUM

The UCLA women's soccer team will begin its 10th year of play on Marshall Field at Drake Stadium when the 2009 home season kicks off against Gonzaga on Sept. 13. The Bruins, who have not lost a home match in more than three years, take a 55-match home unbeaten streak into the year, the longest such streak in the nation.

The stadium, which has served as the on-campus home of the Bruin men's and women's track and field teams since 1969, took on a new look in the spring of 1999 when it was transformed into a state-of-the-art soccer/track & field facility. The stadium provides seating for 11,700 spectators. The cost of the project was $1.5 million and was made possible by a lead gift from Frank Marshall and Kathleen Kennedy. Marshall is a longtime UCLA soccer fan and was a member of UCLA's first NCAA men's soccer team in 1967.

The grass infield, named Marshall Field, houses a regulation 75-yard by 120-yard soccer field. The UCLA men's and women's soccer teams use this field for competition and the adjacent North Athletic Field for practice. The Bruins previously played their games on the North Athletic Field, as well as on Spaulding Field and Murdock Stadium at El Camino College. UCLA's all-time record on Frank W. Marshall Field is 52-8-1.

Marshall Field at Drake Stadium hosted its first-ever regular season soccer game on Sunday, Sept. 17, 2000 when the UCLA men defeated the University of San Francisco, 3-0. The UCLA women first played on the field on Oct. 15, 2000, defeating Oregon, 8-0 in front of 1,742 fans in attendance.

The past eight seasons, Frank W. Marshall Field has served as host of early-round NCAA Women's Soccer Tournament games. In fact, the Bruins take a 15-match NCAA home winning streak into the season. UCLA's last tournament defeat at home was a third round loss to Texas A&M back in 2002.

NORTH ATHLETIC FIELD

In order to preserve the Drake Stadium playing surface, the UCLA women's soccer team does a majority of its training at the nearby North Athletic Field.

Dan Guerrero

Director of Athletics
Eighth Year
UCLA '74

In just seven years as UCLA's Director of Athletics, Daniel G. Guerrero has boldly placed his imprint on the school's highly-successful athletic program.

Guerrero, one of the most respected and talented administrators in intercollegiate athletics, has placed his mark on the program as the director of athletics at UCLA. He is currently serving as the chair of the NCAA's Division I Men's Basketball Academic Enhancement Group. He is also a member of the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee. In addition, he is the third vice-president of NACDA, serves on the NACDA Executive Committee and is also on the executive board of the Division I Athletic Directors Association. In June of 2007, he was named NACDA Division I West Region Athletic Director of the Year.

In his first seven years, Guerrero has clearly established a pattern of "image and substance" that few in his profession can match. UCLA stands as the No. 1 University in the nation for NCAA team championships (104) won, a number that continues to grow under his direction. In those seven years, UCLA teams have won 18 NCAA team titles (the highest total in the nation in that span) in 11 different sports, finished second 14 times and have had an additional 24 Top Five finishes. A staggering 113 teams (of 161 possible) have qualified for NCAA post-season competition and the football team has appeared in six bowl games. The program has also won 42 conference championships in 15 different sports, produced 387 All-Americans and featured four Honda Award winners, including the 2003-04 Collegiate Woman Athlete of the Year.

Guerrero came to UCLA in 2002 from UC Irvine, where he had served as UCI's fifth Director of Athletics for 10 years. Prior to arriving at UC Irvine, he was the Athletic Director for five years at Cal State Dominguez Hills (1988-92). He received his Bachelor's degree from UCLA in 1974 and played second base in the Bruin baseball program for four years. Born on November 10, 1951 in Tucson, AZ, he is married to the former Anne Marie Aniello and they have two daughters: Jenna and Katie.

Ken Weiner

Associate Athletic Director
16th Year
UCLA '78

Ken Weiner enters his 16th year overseeing the business operations for the UCLA Athletic Department and is in his 30th year overall with the university.

His duties include the administration and supervision of six Bruin sport programs, including baseball, men's and women's soccer, women's swimming and diving, and men's and women's water polo. During his tenure at UCLA Athletics, his sports have garnered 14 national championships and numerous conference championship titles. He also oversees new business and project development, and capital improvements for the department.

Weiner spearheaded the negotiations that resulted in a 20-year agreement between UCLA and the Rose Bowl, including much needed facilities improvements for the football program. In addition, he supervises the athletic facilities division, the operations of UCLA's sports practice and competition venues, game and event operations, department and team travel and UCLA Camps and Clinics.

Weiner is responsible for major capital improvements for Athletics. Project include the renovated J.D. Morgan Intercollegiate Athletics Center and Acosta Student Athlete Training Center and Knapp Football Center, the new Hall of Fame, the Jackie Robinson baseball and Easton softball clubhouse construction and stadium renovations, the Drake Track/Marshall Field renovation, a new golf practice facility, Pauley Pavilion interior upgrades and the North soccer field construction. Future projects include a major renovation of the historic Pauley Pavilion, upgrade of the baseball stadium clubhouse and practice facilities and construction of a new Academic Studies Center.

Weiner is a member of NACDA and IAAM. He has served on various committees for the NCAA, most recently as chairman of the Men's Water Polo Committee.

Prior to his appointment at UCLA Athletics, Weiner co-founded and served as Associate Director of the UCLA Central Ticket Office and continues to serve as the liaison between the Athletic Department and the CTO. He earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology from UCLA in 1978. He and his wife, Caren, have two children, Nicole, 22, and Kevin, 19.

Dr. Gene Block

Chancellor
Third Year
Stanford '77

Dr. Gene Block became chancellor of UCLA in summer 2007, taking the helm of a world-class institution comprising 37,000 students and 27,000 faculty and staff, with an annual budget of $3.7 billion. As chief executive officer, he oversees all aspects of the university's three-part mission of education, research and service.

He also holds appointments on the UCLA faculty in the department of psychiatry and biobehavioral sciences in the David Geffen School of Medicine and in the department of physiological science in the College of Letters and Science.

Previously, Dr. Block served as vice president and provost of the University of Virginia, where he also held the Alumni Council Thomas Jefferson Professorship in Biology. With academic expertise in biological clocks, he conducts research on the neurobiology of circadian rhythms in higher organisms, leading a research lab funded by the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

From 1991 to 2002, he directed the National Science Foundation's Science and Technology Center for Biological Timing. In 1997, he was named a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He has invented a number of devices and holds a patent for a non-contact respiratory monitor for the prevention of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

Chancellor Block joined the faculty of the University of Virginia in 1978 as an assistant professor of biology. He served as vice provost for research from 1993 to 1998 and then as vice president for research and public service until his appointment as vice president and provost in 2001.

Dr. Block also headed an NIH graduate training program aimed at increasing the number of scientists from underrepresented groups. In 1998, he received the Commonwealth of Virginia's Outstanding Public Service Award for his work with Virginia's business community.

A native of Monticello, NY, Chancellor Block holds a bachelor's degree in psychology from Stanford and a master's and Ph.D. in psychology from the University of Oregon. He also completed a postdoctoral fellowship at Stanford.
